Part 2: Policies

Principles of Public Education

The Manitoba School Boards Association believes that the purpose of public schooling is to provide for the development of all children, so that each may take a meaningful place in society. The Manitoba School Boards Association has identified the following principles as key to the fulfilment of that purpose.

- The public school system provides quality programming that respects the intrinsic value of the individual and focuses on the development of each child.
- Public school programming reflects a contemporary view of the knowledge, skills, and attitudes that are of most worth to the individual and to society.
- Public schools reflect the character, cultural heritage, and democratic institutions of the communities they serve.
- The public school system demonstrates respect and support for fundamental human rights as identified in Canadian and provincial legislation.
- Public schooling is a responsibility shared among the school, the family, and the community.

School Boards and Trustees

Authority

The Manitoba School Boards Association believes that locally elected school boards are essential to ensuring community voice in public education, and that to be effective in this regard, they require the authority to make local decisions within broad parameters established by provincial legislation. This authority, which resides with the corporate board and not individual trustees, includes the ability to:

- access revenue beyond that which is provided by the provincial government for education purposes, through mechanisms such as the local special levy on property;
- manage financial, capital and human resources in an effective and efficient manner;
- determine and modify as necessary the school division's own internal operating structures; and
- adapt or develop curricula and establish academic requirements or standards that reflect community needs or values.

Responsibility

The Manitoba School Boards Association believes that the exercise of authority brings with it responsibility. In this light, school boards have a responsibility to:

- abide by all relevant laws by which they are bound, while retaining the right to try to influence the legislative process, or advocate for changes to existing laws;
- conduct school board business in an open and transparent manner, limiting the use of in-camera deliberations for those matters requiring confidentiality;
- preserve to the greatest extent possible the integrity of the school board and the office of school trustee through the development and enforcement of a strong school trustee code of conduct; and
- keep the best interest of students at the forefront of all deliberations.

Funding and Financial Matters

Education is a public responsibility. In Manitoba, that responsibility is shared between the provincial government and school boards. The province has constitutional authority for k-12 education, but it has delegated responsibility for the school system's day-to-day operations to school boards. This model of shared responsibility benefits Manitoba by ensuring a high standard of education across the province, by providing greater equity of educational opportunity, and by providing local communities with distinctive programs and services that meet their own self-identified needs. Education funding—the overall level of support and the mechanisms through which that support is distributed—is a critical component of a strong public school system. School boards believe that the following are key elements of an effective education-funding model.

Operational funding

- The provincial government should provide the majority of funds (greater than or equal to 80%) required to operate public schools in accordance with all legislation, regulation, and government mandates or directives.
- Elected school boards must have the authority to raise the balance of required operational funds through the local education property tax levy.
- Limitations, restrictions or conditions on allocation of school division budgets should be minimal, and clearly communicated at the time of the annual provincial funding announcement.
- Provincial funding of education should come primarily in the form of block or per pupil grants rather than categorical grants, to provide school divisions with the maximum flexibility in allocating resources.
- The education funding formula should contain equalization measures and other components to ensure equity of opportunity for students regardless of circumstances or location, and fairness for taxpayers in low-assessment divisions.
- The schedule of operational advances should provide funding to school divisions on a twelve-month basis.

Capital funding

- The provincial government should fully fund new capital construction and major renovations to a level that accurately reflects current construction costs.
- The capital support formula must take into account the inclusion of spaces or facilities necessitated as the result of new mandates or pedagogical developments.
- Capital funding should be allocated objectively based on need, and school boards should be informed regularly on the status of divisional funding requests.

Other financial matters

- Relevant provincial departments (i.e. health) should support financially the delivery of non- educational services to children in schools.
- The purchase of supplies and services required by the public school system should be exempt from consumption taxes levied by federal, provincial, or municipal levels of government.
- All school division property should be exempt from municipal property taxes or special services levies.

Education Programming

Public schools provide all children with the opportunity to acquire the skills and knowledge that enable them to develop their personal interests, explore and master new areas of inquiry, and build stronger futures for themselves and their communities. In order to fulfill this mandate, public schools must:

- maintain an instructional focus on the core subjects which remain integral to student success, including numeracy and literacy.
- offer a dynamic curriculum that recognizes emerging knowledge and learning needs.
- make available high-quality technical, vocational and career programming, and to the extent possible, ensure such offerings align with post-secondary requirements in technical and vocational fields of study.
- include curricular components that will enable young people to better fulfill their current and future roles as contributing family and community members, and as citizens of democratic societies.
- enable such course and delivery modifications as are necessary to ensure that all students, regardless of ability or special needs, geographic location, cultural or linguistic background, or other relevant factor, can benefit from the full range of educational offerings.
- conduct regular, meaningful assessments of student progress towards stated learning goals, with the results of such assessments being used to direct improvements to teaching and learning for both individual students and the student body as a whole.
- align instructional time and human/financial resource allocation with curricular requirements and priorities.

Students

Public schools not only provide academic courses of study for students; they also share in the family and community responsibility for nurturing the whole child, and for helping each one grow into a healthy, happy and contributing member of society. To that end, public schools must:

- recognize the critical importance of the early years for children’s healthy development and learning, and support inter-agency cooperation and collaboration to meet the needs of young children and their families.
- cooperate with organizations having child or youth-focused mandates, including those working with pre-school or young adult populations.
- mitigate the negative impacts of poverty on students, and ensure that equitable educational opportunities are available to all children and youth, regardless of socio-economic status.
- work with other levels of government to promote a “students-first” philosophy that consistently places the needs of children and youth ahead of financial or legal considerations associated with residency, guardianship, jurisdictional boundaries, or similar matters.
- understand the significant roles good physical and mental health, emotional intelligence and empathy play in overall student well-being and achievement, and support or develop programs and initiatives designed to have a positive impact in these areas.
- respect, reflect and celebrate the cultural diversity of Manitoba’s citizens and communities in philosophy and programming.

Human Resources

As employers, school boards have a responsibility to advocate for, develop and implement human resource legislation, policies and practices that will support the recruitment, professional growth and retention of the personnel instrumental to the success of students. These responsibilities to employees must be met within the context of concurrent responsibilities to students, communities, and ratepayers. School boards believe that they can best balance these responsibilities when:

- collective bargaining occurs at the local level between individual school boards and their respective teacher associations and other unionized groups.
- the risk of disruptions to student learning as a result of labour disputes is minimized by the use of binding arbitration rather than strike/lockout as the final dispute resolution process in collective bargaining between school boards and teacher associations.
- arbitrators consider community economic conditions when awarding settlements.
- certification or other administrative barriers that negatively impact school boards' ability to hire qualified teachers, school clinicians, or other high-demand professionals from jurisdictions outside Manitoba are minimized.
- the provision of professional development in areas such as changing curricula, or training in the delivery of specialized health-care services required by individual students, is treated as a shared responsibility of the school board and the province.
- school boards regularly assess the performance of their superintendents in accordance with a defined set of agreed-to principles and criteria.

Transportation

The Manitoba School Boards Association believes that student safety is a key priority for public schools, and that concerns for safety extend to the transportation and movement of students to and from school. In order to maximize student safety, it is imperative that:

- school buses be outfitted with equipment and systems that are known to enhance safety;
- all students be educated on safe school bus ridership;
- appropriate accommodations be made in school zones to ensure the safety of students travelling to and from school (such as reduced speed zones and designated school bus loading/unloading zones);
- traffic laws relating to school buses (such as passing a stopped and signaling bus) be vigorously enforced; and
- regular public education campaigns be undertaken to ensure community members are aware of these laws, and the consequences for violating them.

Facilities and Materials

The Manitoba School Boards Association believes that appropriate school facilities and material resources are essential components of a strong public education system, and as such, must be available to all students and staff, in all areas of the province. Specifically:

- infrastructure such as high-speed Internet must be in place in all Manitoba schools, to enable students to participate fully in curricular offerings;
- new schools must be built, and existing schools retrofitted as required, to ensure accessibility and to meet the needs of students and other persons with disabilities;
- school boards must be involved in the planning of new residential developments to help ensure appropriate accommodations are made for public schools; and
- land required for new school sites must be made available to school divisions at a reasonable cost.
